Most of Our New Stock Has Arrived

The new stocks, like a continued story, have been arriving chapter by chapter, just enough each day to make one hungry for more. Now there is plenty of it here.

Willing hands have been unpacking comfortable chairs, delicate little tables, novel pieces of every description, massive bedroom suites and imposing dining-room furniture, for three weeks past.

We could go on at great length telling you all about this furniture. But why waste words? You couldn't begin to form any idea of the attractiveness of our stock from what we could tell you, for there is a certain charm about these new, rich things that only contact will acquaint you with. Come—you will be welcomed.

The little son of Harley Bond was operated upon at Heaton hospital this morning to straighten one foot. The cords at the back of the heel were cut, as they had contracted and caused the boy considerable discomfort, as well as drawing the foot out of shape. The operation was successful and the foot will be placed in a cast. He was brought to his home to-day and it is expected that the trouble has been permanently removed.

Through some of the recent pranks of the weather man, Barre's main street this morning presented the unusual spectacle of a winter road on the west side, while on the opposite side, the road was in excellent condition for motoring and the use of other wheeled vehicles. While sleighs, puns and other seasonable winter teams were making their way easily along one side of the street, motors and carriages were frisking up and down a road that, for lack of dust, was better traveling than in July.

Tea at Five.

Candles on pink-petalled globes, Daffodils sheathed all in green; "Buds" in bewitching robes, Dainty, demure and serene—Think when they ask me to come Teas are for women—a bore—But here's a comforting crumb—Lilith is certain to pour!

Lilith in flower-like guise, Putting the daffies to shame, Smiling in friendliest wise, Saying: "So glad that you came!" Likewise bestowing her smiles On men, and more men, for these Flock where sweet Lilith beguiles—Even to afternoon teas!

Five—and I haste to depart—So do the others galore, Saying each one in his heart: "Lilith is certain to pour!" But, at disquieting whiles, I know (I wonder do these!) Little Lilith of Smiles—You are the afternoon teas!

—Puck.

Prompt Punishment of a Liar.
Years ago the courthouse in San Francisco fronted the old Plaza. A trial was in progress, and counsel for the defendant was cross examining the plaintiff. An earthquake shook the chandeliers and dislodged some of the ceiling. Judge, jurors, witnesses and spectators rushed for the door, but, finding that the seismic disturbance was over, they returned.

"You can proceed with the cross examination of the witness," said the judge.

"Pardon me, your honor," said counsel for the defendant, "but after the late exhibition of the displeasure of the Almighty at the lies this witness was telling I do not care to further invoke divine wrath. I will ask him no more questions."—Los Angeles Times.

Horses in the Time of Homer.
The horses used in Homer's time were war horses. The warriors were drawn in chariots. The art of riding was known, but it is alluded to as something unusual. Ulysses at the time of his shipwreck "bestrode a plunk, like a horseman on a big steed." There are reasons for believing that the practice of riding was much later than that of driving, and the myth of the centaur, where, according to Shakespeare, "man is incorporated and dematerialized with the beast," probably originated at an early period when the appearance of a man on horseback was a novel sight.

The Origin of Grocer.
Grocer appears in Holinshed's Chronicle, 1580, as "grossier," and in other medieval records it is sometimes written "engrosser" and was applied to the spicers and peppers who were wholesale dealers in various spices—that is, who dealt in gross—in large quantities, as distinguished from "retailers," who were retail dealers. The Grocers' company first adopted the word grocer in 1573, when the spicers and peppers allied themselves into a single corporation.—London Express.

Agreed With Her.
Tramp (at the door)—If you please, lady— Mrs. Muggs (sternly)—There, that will do. I am tired of this everlasting whine of "Lady, lady." I am just a plain woman, and— Tramp—You are, madam, one of the plainest women I've ever seen and one of the honestest to own up to it.

Cruel.
Mrs. Benham—Every time I sing to the baby he cries. Benham—He gets his ability as a musical critic from my side of the house.—New York Press.

Garment Department

Ladies' suits and coats are so entirely different from last season that most ladies will feel obliged to buy new. Sorry that you have to lay aside a neat, pretty, well-tailored garment for one that is new in style. It's our business to have these new things and have them right.

Ladies' suits, also made with rather narrow skirts, are also very pretty. Better cloth being used and better work in the making. They are sure to appeal to you as really with more style than of any previous season. Popular prices for best made suits run from $15.00 to $25.00. There will be lots higher priced ones sold and some cheaper, but the prices mentioned will give you a good, well-made suit, made of good grade suitings and well tailored.

Ladies' long coats are having a run. It's a season of long, neatly tailored coats. Sensible kinds.

New Waists for Easter in muslins, silk and Marquisette also new Silk Dresses and Petticoats.

Another new lot of bordered muslins just added to our stock. The prevailing style of the summer dress, especially in the lighter weights, such as muslins, call for bordered effects, which are very pretty. They are new and carry a style about them that plain muslins do not have, for the reason that the borders make a trimming that is in perfect harmony with the body of the material used.

We have a special bordered muslin called Cortisilk, that has very small dots with persian effects in the border and are mercerized finished, at only 15c per yard. These are equally as good as Linaire at 18c.

New lot of Domestic Foulard silks. These are the same pattern as Spot-proof Foulard, having a cotton warp and silk filling. Very pretty and serviceable at only 25c per yard.

New lot of yard-wide colored meslins, the Brainerd and Armstrong make, at $1.35 per yard, also another grade, same make, same width, at $1.00 per yard. Any dressmaker will tell you to buy yard-wide silk. It gets a better garment and at the same time saves from 10 to 20 per cent on cost of material.

Ask to see our yard-wide Black Taffets for waists, dresses or silk petticoats, a $1.25 value for $1.00.

Curious Lighthouse of the Republic of San Salvador.

The republic of San Salvador, on the Pacific side of Central America, is the only government on earth that collects lighthouse fees on account of a volcano that it owns.

The volcanic beacon is about eight miles inland from the port of Acajutla and its pillar of cloud by day and its fire sky night are visible for many miles out at sea. It erupts every seven minutes and is just as accurate as any revolving light that warns mariners in any part of the world. This volcano has been keeping up this seven minute series of eruptions ever since any one can remember. It is a favorite amusement of visiting gringos to sit by the hour during the lazy afternoons and, watch in hand, time the eruptions until they tire of the amusement and fall asleep.

Every vessel that puts in at Acajutla—and it is quite an important port of call along that part of the coast—has to pay its lighthouse fee. There is no other lighthouse than the volcano, but that is a sufficient excuse for the government of Salvador to make a charge for its services. The explosions that accompany the eruptions sound like detonations of heavy charges of dynamite, but are not sufficient to shake the ground perceptibly more than a mile or two from the summit of the crater. At night there is a spurt of fire, a muffled report and a cloud of steam. By day only the steam is visible.—New York Press.

CONAN DOYLE WAS LATE.

The Lonely Schwarzenbach Inn and a Literary Coincidence. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle once walked over the Gemmi. He was much impressed by the desolate appearance of the lonely looking Schwarzenbach Inn. Here, it seemed to him, was an ideal scene in which a novelist might locate a story of mystery and crime.

He proceeded to invent a story of mystery and crime suitable to the creepy environment. It was a story of murder—the murder of a long lost son just home from the wars by his own father, the needy innkeeper, who did not recognize him until after the deed was done, but had resolved to kill and rob the first lonely stranger that passed that way with money in his pocket.

"The very thing," thought Sir Arthur, and he went down the hill cheerfully revolving the morbid conception in his mind. Then a strange thing happened.

After dinner, in the hotel at Lenkerbad, he picked up a volume of Maupassant's short stories and he found that the French author had not only been to the Schwarzenbach Inn before him, but had actually located there a story practically identical with the one which he himself had just devised.—Travel and Exploration.

Spiteful.
At a local picture show a painter hung a notice under his highly prized landscape. "Do not touch with canes or umbrellas." Some one who was not an admirer of his works added to the notice. "Take an ax!"

Disagreeable Economy.
Husband—You are not economical. Wife—Well, if you don't call a woman economical who saves her wedding dress for a possible second marriage I'd like to know what you think economical is like.

Easter Next

Only two weeks ahead. Time to get the new things that you want to wear on that day. Last spring Easter was so early that not all of the new spring coats, waists and suits could be had. This season it is different. We now have in stock in all lines the best assortment that we will have this season. This means that now is your very best opportunity to select new ideas. From now on we will be getting out of some of our best kinds. Will have others to take their place but not that new assortment that we can show you for your Easter purchase.
